

Thinking of doing a PhD?

Pathway to PhD – Improving Outcomes

Wednesday 25th July 2018 | 9:30-18:30

Prospero House, 241 Borough High Street,
London, SE1 1GA

Are you thinking of doing a PhD and identify as black or minority ethnic (BME)? The London Interdisciplinary Biosciences Consortium (LIDo), are hosting a free one-day event for the second year running for potential research students who identify as BME. The event will increase the number BME candidates making informed and well-prepared applications to high profile Doctoral Training Programmes.

UCL Dean Representatives, Black Student's Officer from the NUS, students from the MRC and BBSRC DTP's and Unilever will present their experiences in short talks and panel discussions over the morning, with a chance to participate in workshops covering interview techniques, persuasive writing and presenting yourself confidently.
